

Symposium 05 – Collective Action, Commons and the Firm: Interdisciplinary Perspectives

Organised by Yuri Biondi (Cnrs, ESCP Europe – Labex ReFi)

Sponsored by the SIG ‘Business for Society’

Université Paris – Est Créteil, IAE Building - Room 301. June 2 (Thursday) 2016, 9:00 - 10:30

Corporate groups and their web of socio-economic and financial relationships are today the dominant form of industrial organisation. They raise overwhelming issues and concerns for both society and nature within which they operate, and their stakeholders (including shareholders): Why do corporate groups exist? How do they operate in economy and society? Which interests should they serve? What are their responsibilities towards stakeholders and the general interest? How should they being controlled and made accountable to their constituencies? This symposium aims to address these fundamental questions by looking at industrial firms and groups as modes of collective action involving commonalities which require specific attention and design for management, governance and regulation.

Invited speakers

Clarke	Thomas	UTS Sidney
Coriat	Benjamin	University Paris 13 North
Segrestin	Blanche	Ecole des Mines de Paris
Vercher-Chaptal	Corinne	University Paris 13 North
Weinstein	Olivier	University Paris 13 North

Moderator: Yuri Biondi (Cnrs, ESCP Europe – Labex ReFi)

